TSX and TSX Venture Exchange did not resume trading today

Further to our bulletin dated December 17, 2008, the Toronto Stock Exchange and TSX Venture Exchange did not resume trading today due to technical issues. A pre-open session has taken place from 3:00 pm to 5:00 pm EST today to allow market participants to cancel, add or change orders.

These developments have created a time delay in our ability to price securities for our Canadian Fund Valuation clients, and as a result we will experience a media timing delay. We sincerely apologize for any inconvenience this has caused and will be working toward normal resumption of operations as quickly as possible.
